RECOMMENDATIONS:

That the Standing Policy Committee on Community and Protective Services recommend that Council:

1. Endorse the proposed actions of the Community-Based Public Safety Task Force, and
2. Conclude the work of the Community-Based Public Safety Task Force and thank the members for their contribution.

HIGHLIGHTS

- The Community-Based Public Safety Task Force (Task Force) brought together a coalition of partners to focus their diverse perspectives on the complex issue of urban violence and to identify tangible actions that are aligned with the needs of communities.
- Task Force proposed actions rely on anticipated funding dedicated to anti-gang programming from Public Safety Canada. The actions focus on sharing feedback from community engagement, applying for the anticipated federal funding for prevention of gang-related violence, and coordinating stakeholders to identify and support priority program needs related to at-risk and gang-involved populations.
- The Task Force was an early initiative focused on improving community safety in Calgary and has since become part of a landscape including the Anti-Racism Action Committee, the Community Action on Mental Health and Addiction Strategy, and the Community Safety Investment Framework. Task Force recommendations for action will coordinate with these initiatives to help address the root causes of gang-related violence in Calgary.
- What does this mean to Calgarians? Community perceptions of public safety have been impacted by a rise in offences involving firearms. Task Force recommendations for action support a community-driven and community-owned approach to addressing concerns around urban violence.
- Why does it matter? The Task Force recommendation to apply for anticipated federal grants from Public Safety Canada will support better coordination and improve navigation and access for services targeted to at-risk and gang-involved population, creating safe and connected communities.
- On 2020 February 3, Council directed Administration to create a Community-Based Public Safety Task Force and report back with best advice and recommendations addressing community concerns around gun and gang violence.
- Strategic Alignment to Council's Citizen Priorities: A city of safe and inspiring neighbourhoods
- Background and Previous Council Direction are included as Attachment 1.

DISCUSSION

The Community-Based Public Safety Task Force (Task Force) was created to provide a foundation for a community-driven and community-owned collaborative approach to create safe and connected communities. The Task Force was composed of a diverse group of experts and professionals from various fields, including representatives from all orders of government, the Calgary Police Commission, the Calgary Police Service, public education, academia, local service agencies and community leaders. The mandate of the Task Force was to review local and national programs and engage community members to understand which services are effective, and identify gaps, challenges and issues with existing programs. Research and public engagement were also used by Task Force members to provide Council with actionable recommendations. Task Force findings and recommendations for action are detailed in Community-Based Public Safety Task Force: Creating Safe and Connected Communities included as Attachment 2.

Voices of the Community

Recognizing that the best solutions to community concerns about public safety will be collaborative and inclusive, the Task Force engaged a diverse cross-section of Calgarians to better understand those concerns and learn from the lived experience of those affected by urban violence. Some key themes resulting from the engagement were the need for flexible youth programming tailored to community needs, culturally specific services that recognize the requirements of different ethno-cultural groups, and the need for consistent funding sources for important programs that support the community.

Realities & Responses

Existing gang prevention, intervention and suppression programs in Calgary and other relevant jurisdictions were reviewed, with a specific focus on at-risk or gang-involved populations. The analysis identified a number of gang prevention and early-intervention programs in Calgary that help improve outcomes for at-risk individuals and their families. Program and service gaps included opportunities to enhance system navigation and coordination, and a need for formal support to parents and caregivers. Gang-exiting programs and street outreach for gang-involved individuals were considered by the Task Force to be inadequate.

Recommendations for Action

Based on community input and results of the program review, the Task Force is proposing the following actions toward creating safe and connected communities:

1. Share, Monitor and Advocate - Valuable insights gained by the Task Force that are outside its scope will be consolidated and shared with appropriate organizations to action, supporting alignment with existing initiatives. Progress on shared feedback will be monitored by City Administration and continued advocacy to the Government of Canada on issues related to urban violence is encouraged.
2. Apply for and Align Funding - It is anticipated that Public Safety Canada will be announcing five years of dedicated funding to deter gun crime and support anti-gang programming and provide details on funding distribution and processes in the 2021 Federal Budget. Funding is foundational to proceeding with Task Force recommendations for action. Administration should apply for anticipated funding for community proposals that align with the framework criteria to support Calgary-based solutions specific to gang and gun violence.
3. Coordinate and Improve Navigation and Access - The City should support community stakeholders in identifying and prioritizing needs related to at-risk and gang-involved populations. Initiatives need to be community-built and culturally appropriate, ensuring coordination with existing initiatives that address the root causes of urban violence. This work will involve identifying barriers around navigating gang-specific programming and improving access for those at-risk or involved in gang activity. Community-built initiatives will coordinate with existing City initiatives including the Anti-Racism Action Committee, the Community Action on Mental Health and Addiction Strategy, and the Community Safety Investment Framework, to advance The City's overarching commitment to community safety.

STAKEHOLDER ENGAGEMENT AND COMMUNICATION (EXTERNAL)

- ☒ Public Engagement was undertaken
- ☐ Public Communication or Engagement was not required
- ☐ Public/Stakeholders were informed
- ☒ Stakeholder dialogue/relations were undertaken

In-person and virtual engagement sessions were conducted throughout 2020 with 15 different groups including community associations, ethno-cultural groups, education stakeholders, and individuals with lived experience of urban violence. The Task Force launched an on-line citizen survey in 2020 November. The survey sought input on perceptions of the biggest public safety issues in local communities and asked for suggestions on possible solutions.

IMPLICATIONS

Social

The Task Force recommendations for action support the Social Wellbeing Policy principle of prevention by supporting safe and connected communities. Conducting work to understand needs and priorities in relation to at-risk and gang-involved populations will position The City to maximize anticipated Public Safety Canada funding to support programs within Calgary.

Environmental

The natural and built environment impacts and is impacted by community safety.

Economic

Urban violence results in economic impacts for individuals, families and communities. Access to federal funding for more culturally appropriate and gang-exiting programs can reduce spending on touch points to the justice system and related social services.

Service and Financial Implications

No anticipated financial impact

The recommendations of the Task Force will require significant resources. Administration is anticipating Public Safety Canada funding to enable this work to advance.

RISK

Actions identified by the Task Force rely on a portion of anticipated funding of $250 million over five years from Public Safety Canada for municipalities, community groups and Indigenous communities to deliver anti-gang programming. If this funding is not announced in 2021 April or is less than anticipated, capacity to address the identified actions will be compromised. Administration will monitor the announcement of federal funding and adjust actions, if required.

Creating Safe and Connected Communities

In 2005, Calgary adopted its 100-year vision, which reads as follows:

Calgary: a great place to make a living, a great place to make a life.

For thousands of years, people have met at the confluence of two vital rivers to imagine and realize their futures. Together, we have built a city of energy, born of a powerful convergence of people, ideas and place. Together, we continue to imagine a Calgary and a community where:

We are each connected to one another. Our diverse skills and heritage interweave to create a resilient communal fabric, while our collective spirit generates opportunity, prosperity and choice for all of us.

We are each connected to our places. We treasure and protect our natural environment. Magnificent mountain vistas and boundless prairie skies inspire each of us to build spaces worthy of our surroundings.

We are each connected to our communities. Whether social, cultural or physical, these communities are mixed, safe and just. They welcome meaningful participation from everyone, and people move freely between them.

We are each connected beyond our boundaries. We understand our impact upon and responsibility to others. Our talent and caring, combined with a truly Canadian sense of citizenship, make positive change across Alberta, throughout Canada and around the world.

We would like to acknowledge and thank all participants in the Community-Based Public Safety Task Force and community members that shared their expert knowledge and lived experiences in relation to gun and gang violence to help inform the work of the Task Force. This report was prepared based on information gathered through Task Force meetings, presentations from community and academia, engagement with community members connected with at-risk youth and gang-involved individuals, and an online citizen survey. Best efforts have been made to fully represent what was heard by both Task Force and community members, acknowledging the complexity and far-reaching impacts of gun and gang violence.

Land Acknowledgement

In the spirit of respect and truth, we acknowledge the original inhabitants of this land that Niitsitapi have called Moh'kinsstis since time immemorial. We honour the signatories of Treaty 7: the Blackfoot Confederacy, including the Siksika, Kainai, and Piikani nations, the Iyârhe Nakoda of the Chiniki, Wesley and Bearspaw nations, and the Tsuut'ina nation. We acknowledge the members of the Métis community and specifically, the Métis Nation of Alberta Region Three. In the spirit of reconciliation and because we are all treaty people, we also acknowledge all Calgarians who make our homes in the traditional Treaty 7 territory of Southern Alberta.

Executive Summary

On 2020 February 3, Council unanimously approved Notice of Motion PFC2020-0120 initiating the formation of a Community-Based Public Safety Task Force (the Task Force) to identify and address community concerns around escalating urban violence in Calgary, with a focus on gang and gun violence. The Task Force undertook extensive community and public engagement and reviewed local and national gang prevention, early-intervention and exiting programs to understand which services are effective, and identify gaps, challenges and issues with existing programs. This report presents the findings and recommendations for action from the Task Force.

While there are many gang prevention and early-intervention programs available in Calgary, the Task Force heard from the community that barriers exist around accessing and navigating services for certain population groups, as well as through life stages. Significant programming gaps were identified in the areas of parenting skills development, gang exiting/re-integration and street outreach focused on gang-involved individuals. There is also a need for more culturally appropriate programming options, more input required from the community and those with lived experience on program design and evaluation, and greater support for advocacy-focused initiatives that address the experience of inequality that disproportionately impacts members of the Black, Indigenous and People of Colour (BIPOC) community. A lack of consistent funding was also identified as a barrier, both for families and social programs in general.

Based on community input and the results of the gap analysis, the Task Force proposes the following actions toward creating safe and connected communities where all citizens feel secure:

Action 1: Share, Monitor and Advocate

- Valuable insights gained by the Task Force on the realities, gaps and proposed solutions to urban violence, including those that were outside the scope of the task force, will be consolidated and shared through a letter from the Task Force Chair to appropriate organizations. The City will schedule a check-in with each organization to monitor progress. The Chair will continue to advocate to the Government of Canada on issues related to urban violence.

Action 2: Apply for and Align Funding

- The City will create an action plan for funding based on criteria identified by the community and Task Force to apply for anticipated federal grants from Public Safety Canada. Calgary's potential share of the funding over the next five years would then finance solicited proposals from the community that align with the criteria to support immediate, Calgary-based community solutions specific to gang and gun violence.

Based on feedback from the community and the Task Force, criteria for the potential investments could include, but is not limited to: improved navigation of programs, barrier-free youth programs, increased supports for offenders, increased supports for youth addiction recovery, and increased programming for parents and families. The criteria could also be used to guide partnership opportunities or future applications for other funding sources as they arise.

Action 3: Coordinate and Improve Navigation and Access

- The City will play a key role in system mapping, coordinating community stakeholders to identify and prioritize needs and opportunities related to at-risk and gang-involved populations. This work will involve identifying gaps and barriers around navigating gang-specific programming, improving access for those at-risk or involved in gang activity, and supporting advocacy-focused initiatives toward systemic change.

1.0 Introduction

1.1 Background

On 2020 February 3, Council unanimously approved Notice of Motion PFC2020-0120 initiating the formation of a Community-Based Public Safety Task Force (the Task Force) to identify and address community concerns around escalating violent crime in Calgary, with a focus on gang and gun violence.

Building on the commitment of the Calgary Police Service to tackle crime and firearms-related violence, the key purpose of the Task Force was to provide a foundation for a broader community-driven and community-owned strategy that is collaborative and proposes solutions that improve safety and the perception of safety in communities.

Using a cross-sectoral approach, the Task Force brought together a coalition of partners to focus their diverse perspectives on the complex issue of gang and gun violence and to identify tangible actions that are aligned with the needs of communities.

The work of the Task Force was also guided by Notice of Motion C2020-0715 approved by Council on 2020 June 15 which affirmed Calgary's commitment to anti-racism and directed the Task Force to consider issues of systemic racism. To support this initiative, the Task Force actively sought out the perspectives of marginalized communities, including the Black, Indigenous and People of Colour (BIPOC) community, to inform its recommendations, and evaluated local programs and services to identify systemic and language barriers to participation, as well as opportunities to collaborate on initiatives that address structural racism at the community level.

It is important to note that several other initiatives have been ongoing or introduced since the Task Force was formed, including the Community Action on Mental Health and Addiction Strategy, the Community Safety Investment Framework and Calgary Police's Gang Strategy and Anti-Racism Action Committee, that are separate, but have significant parallels with the work of the Task Force.

The mandate of the Task Force was to review local and national programs and engage community members to understand which services are effective, and identify gaps, challenges and issues with existing programs. Research and public engagement were also used by Task Force members to provide Council with actionable recommendations with a focus on identifying and addressing community concerns around urban violence.

The Task Force was composed of a diverse group of experts and professionals from various fields, including representatives from all orders of government, the Calgary Police Service, the Calgary Police Commission, public education, academia, local service agencies and community leaders.

Task Force members convened six times over a period of nine months. At meetings, the Task Force identified priorities, set goals and objectives and received presentations and briefings from various partners, including community organizations, City agencies, academia and the provincial and federal governments. Outside of scheduled meetings, the Task Force sought input from the community through targeted stakeholder engagement which occurred from 2020 September to November, as well as public engagement which was completed in 2020 November and December. Other activities which informed the work of the Task Force included a scan of existing prevention programs and services in Calgary and a review of innovative programs in other jurisdictions.

1.2 Purpose and Structure of Report

The purpose of this report is to provide advice and recommendations to Council on addressing community concerns around gang and gun violence, with a focus on prevention. In crafting recommendations, the Task Force considered several factors which appear in the report in the following sections:

- Voices of the Community summarizes the results of targeted stakeholder and public engagement conducted by the Task Force. Engagement was undertaken with marginalized communities, including the Black and Indigenous communities as part of Calgary's commitment to anti-racism.
- Realities & Responses summarizes existing local programs, as well as promising programs in comparable jurisdictions which support the reduction of gang and gun violence. A gap analysis of existing local programs and services is also provided.
- Recommendations for Action outlines the recommendations and proposed timeline for actions provided by the Task Force.

Additional background information and supporting documents are provided in the appendices.

1.3 Strategic Framework

The strategic framework in Figure 1 provides a visual outline of the Task Force's overarching structure for improving public safety in Calgary communities. The intent of the framework is to provide a blueprint for purpose, direction, strategic actions and intended outcomes, both now and in the future.

The center of the framework establishes the vision of the Task Force and describes why the work is important. The next ring outlines the scope of the work as defined by the Task Force's mandate and identifies directions for public policy. The third circle lists strategic actions and defines how stakeholders work together to achieve the ultimate outcomes of the Task Force which are featured in the outermost circle of the framework.

1.4 Current Landscape

Though not unique to Calgary, violent crime has been steadily increasing since 2016. Community perceptions of public safety have been impacted by a rise in offences involving firearms and handguns, including a significant increase in 2020 (Figure 2)*. The increase in shooting incidents in 2020 is even more concerning since overall violence fell in 2020 as a result of the COVID-19 pandemic. A shooting incident is defined by the Calgary Police Service as any discharge from a firearm that results in personal injury, property damage or corroborating physical evidence.

Of the 511 shootings that have occurred over the last five years, 54% were targeted. A closer examination of these targeted shootings reveals that over half (54%) were motivated by the drug trade while 13% were motivated by disputes between gangs, 34 of which resulted in a homicide. On average, between 2015 and 2020, one in five victims, and 16% of identified suspects were between the ages of 19 and 25 years of age.

Over the last five years the communities that have had the greatest number of shootings are those in the Northeast (NE) and Southeast (SE) quadrants of the city (total number of shootings in brackets):

- Beltline, SW / SE (24)
- Rundle, NE (16)
- Pineridge, NE (15)
- Southview, SE (14)
- Penbrooke Meadows, SE (14)
- Marlborough, NE (14)
- Temple, NE (12)
- Dover, SE (11)
- Whitehorn, NE (11)
- Taradale, NE (10)

As trends continue to evolve, so too does the gang landscape in Calgary. According to Criminal Intelligence Service Canada, there were at least ten active criminal networks operating in the city in 2019. While traditional organized crime networks tend to be highly structured groups led by a few key players, gangs today can also be loose affiliations of individuals who form alliances to achieve short-term, mutually beneficial goals.

Although gang loyalty is often built along social, cultural or ethnic lines, members can also be highly transient, associating with multiple gangs in Calgary, as well as in other jurisdictions in Alberta and across Canada. To reflect this evolution, the current definition of gangs used by the Calgary Police Service encompasses organized crime and loose criminal networks.

Although there is a heightened awareness of gang-related gun crime due to the violent nature of these offences and their impact on communities, other criminal activities in which gangs are often involved include theft and robbery, trafficking and dealing in drugs, people, weapons and counterfeit goods, fraud and financial crime, cybercrime and child sexual exploitation. Gangs also engage in active recruitment of children and youth, often targeting those who lack social connections or belong to marginalized communities.

In 2020 January, the Calgary Police Service approved a service-wide gang strategy guided by the four interconnected pillars of Predict, Protect, Pursue and Prevent. The priority is to reduce the threat and impact of gang crime in Calgary using a coordinated approach, while also acknowledging that new ideas and approaches are needed to address gang and gun violence, as well as other systemic issues at the community level.

Community Realities

I had an opportunity to meet with a young South Sudanese youth, “Smith”, who has been in Calgary Correction Centre from January 2020. My meeting with Smith was incredibly positive, he remembered me from a time when I would give out free meals to him and a friend whenever I met them. Smith began to explain his conviction leading to arrest from theft, gun possession and trafficking. I initiated the cause of his actions, he said, “poverty and family falling apart.” Smith and his family have been living in Calgary Housing from the time they moved to Canada.

Smith’s statement is that the Police system has treated him very unfairly. He feels alone while all his friends have a community that advocates for them, but South Sudanese has none. He continued saying, “he was falsely accused of stealing a jacket that he actually bought. The School principal called the police on him because the jacket seemed expensive. When he tried to explain he was called to the office and asked if he bought the jacket or if he stole it. Smith urged the police officer that was very rude to him to call the store and ask. The police officer called and said, “was there any theft at the store by a tall black man?” The store manager said no but there was a jacket bought by a young tall black boy. He also said every week police officers would come to his school and go through his locker, throwing everything on the ground then leave the place scattered. Smith said, officers would tell him, “you will never finish school, you’re nothing but a drug dealer, then he would get arrested during lunch hours and all student are watching.” And because of all this he is hurt and has no respect for the police system.

2.0 Voices of the Community

Recognizing that the best solutions to community concerns about public safety will be collaborative and inclusive, the Task Force engaged a diverse cross-section of Calgarians to better understand the concerns of community members and learn from the lived experience of those who may have been affected by urban violence, including gang and gun violence.

An additional goal of engagement as outlined in the mandate of the Task Force was to identify positive actions already underway in communities, as well as any gaps, challenges and issues with existing crime prevention programs and services. In support of Notice of Motion C2020-0715 affirming The City of Calgary's commitment to anti-racism, the Task Force approached all engagement through a lens of systemic racism by actively reaching out to marginalized communities, including the BIPOC community, to provide a true representation of Calgary's residents.

2.1 Community Engagement

In 2020 August, the Task Force began identifying communities and groups of interest for targeted stakeholder engagement sessions. From 2020 September to November, a series of in-person and virtual engagement sessions were conducted with 15 different groups including community associations, ethnocultural groups, academia, LGBTQ2S+ community members, education stakeholders and students, criminal justice experts, firearms industry participants, and individuals with lived experience of domestic violence and gang violence. Sessions were conducted in a facilitated round-table format to allow participants to lead the discussion on priority issues for them. Following the community engagement sessions, common themes were identified and grouped to better inform the recommendations of the Task Force.

The following are the key themes that emerged from community engagement:

Existing Programs & Services

- Coordination of resources – Stakeholders felt that there is a lack of coordination between existing programs and services. They felt that many services are being offered in silos rather than as interconnected supports. For example, trauma, mental health and addiction are being treated as individual issues but often have the same underlying cause.

- Lack of information – There is a lack of information in communities on the variety and type of services that are available and how to access them. There also needs to be more information on how to navigate various formal systems and processes (e.g. the process for families to regain custody of their children from Child Protective Services).
- Barriers – Participants identified a number of barriers which prevent individuals from accessing programs and services, such as language barriers and being a member of a marginalized community. Individuals who are unable to express their needs in their own language have difficulty accessing the appropriate type of care and may also lack a sense of identity and belonging to their community.

Gaps

- Youth programs – Stakeholders expressed a desire for more flexible, drop-in programs for youth to participate in sports and social activities in their own neighbourhoods. They also felt that youth would benefit from more positive role models, such as successful individuals who grew up in their own community, to encourage them to stay in school.
- Education – Schools are not always equipped to meet the individual needs of all students and community members. There is also a lack of support for newcomer parents with navigating the education system, particularly with respect to the admission requirements and process for pursuing post-secondary education. Families often encounter biases and discriminatory behaviour that erodes trust with the education system and discourages parents and youth from reaching out to schools as a trusted resource.
- Culturally-specific programming – Stakeholders felt that there are not enough programs and services that recognize the unique needs of different ethnocultural groups. There is also a lack of professionals working in the areas of mental health, addictions, child protection and gang prevention and intervention who understand, or seek to understand, the cultural context of the community groups they serve, as well as the specific challenges facing newcomers, such as the trauma of immigration adversity.
- Parenting Programs – For programs that focus on parenting skills development, there is a need to examine expectations for parents and take into consideration different parenting styles across cultures and traditions. Programs need to expand beyond the Westernized standard of parenting and recognize that a one-size-fits-all approach may not be effective or culturally appropriate. Assessments and home studies must also be culturally informed to prevent prejudicial evaluations of what constitutes child protection.
- Program evaluation – Community evaluation of gang prevention and intervention programs is needed to determine whether programs are having the intended outcomes and impacts on the target population. Community stakeholders and those with lived experience in programs should be engaged to help design solutions.
- Funding – A lack of consistent funding was identified as a major issue for local programs and services, particularly among Black-led organizations. Stakeholders also emphasized that families often don't have the resources to pay for programs that would keep their children safe and out of trouble.

There is a lot of responsibility on newcomer parents to navigate the education system, which may be totally different than the system back in their country of origin.

A mother and her children landed in Canada as refugees of the civil war in South Sudan. Unfortunately, they did not escape violence. As she worked full-time to support her family, she was unable to raise her kids with the level of attention she wanted to give them. Her son was the victim of a shooting. Language barriers, poverty, and generational trauma led to a cycle of violence that followed her family across the world.

“Youth in the (South Sudanese) community navigate between fitting into the ‘Canadian’ culture, honoring their South Sudanese traditions, and overcoming the trauma from fleeing the war. Not to mention the loss of loved ones in this journey, and having their lives completely uprooted.”

Systemic Racism

- Experience of Inequality – Gang and gun violence disproportionately impacts Black youth and racialized communities in Calgary. The BIPOC community expressed a feeling of being overrepresented in the justice system and shared stories of being “carded” (i.e. asked by police to show identification with no justification). Many in the BIPOC community feel as though they can’t call police when they’ve been the victim of a crime.
- Police hiring practices and training – Stakeholders felt that the BIPOC community is underrepresented in the Calgary Police Service and that hiring needs to be conducted through a lens of anti-racism to ensure better representation. They also felt that current anti-racism training for the Calgary Police Service is inadequate and treated as more of an obligation than an opportunity to learn how to apply a mindset of anti-racism in real-world situations. Many felt that training should be developed in collaboration with the BIPOC community and taught by an instructor with a lived experience of systemic racism.
- Police funding – Stakeholders felt that funding is being disproportionately allocated to the police budget to manage crime, while prevention programs are underfunded. They shared that if more funds are provided to social agencies to deal with low-risk situations, police could direct individuals to resources that are more equipped to handle offender or victim needs.

In Calgary, despite Black-led organizations’ success and long-term track record in building safe communities, they continue to be marginalized and excluded from government initiatives and funding.

2.2 Public Engagement

To better engage with Calgarians from across the city, the Task Force launched an on-line citizen survey from 2020 November 3 to December 18. The survey sought input on perceptions of the biggest public safety issues in local communities and asked for suggestions on possible solutions.

There was a total of 2,853 unique visitors to the online site and 593 who contributed feedback. The highest number of responses were received from residents of Ward 7 at 31%, followed by

Ward 8 at 11%. The results of the survey are not statistically representative of the larger Calgary population but do provide insight into respondents’ perspectives on public safety at the time of engagement.

The top five biggest public safety issues identified by respondents were auto theft/break-ins (66%), home break-ins (46%), illegal drug use (30%), traffic issues (27%) and illegal drug sales (22%). Gang violence was identified by 8% of respondents as being a big public safety issue in their community while 5% of respondents identified gun violence.

An additional question on the survey asked respondents to provide suggestions for increasing public safety within their community and in Calgary. The following themes emerged:

- More police presence – The theme most frequently referenced by respondents was a desire for increased police presence in communities with no reductions in funding for the police budget. Participants also suggested improved response times, better follow-through from the police, and more awareness of the role of Community Resource Officers.
- More social programs – The second most identified theme was around developing more accessible programs and services for youth, young adults and individuals experiencing mental health challenges. Participants supported reallocating funds from the police budget to social service agencies to decriminalize and destigmatize issues involving mental health, homelessness, and the BIPOC and LGBTQ2S+ communities.
- Community-led safety initiatives – There was support for more funding and training for community-led safety initiatives such as Block Watch and grassroots community crime awareness and prevention initiatives.
- Improved safety infrastructure – Participants suggested making improvements to safety infrastructure in the city including better lighting, more closed-circuit camera surveillance, more peace officer presence and safety mechanisms on public transit, and more traffic calming measures and enforcement.

More detailed results from the public engagement survey including a selection of verbatim comments from participants are included in the full What We Heard Report in Appendix 5.

Is there enough diversity among professionals working in gang prevention and intervention? We need more professionals who not only speak the language, but also truly understand (or seek to understand) the backgrounds of the communities they work with.

Community Realities

The Bear Clan Patrol has located missing people. One was a child in care who ran away. Resources are stretched but people we talked with felt safer with us, that we weren't going to make the situation worse, some folks have fear about calling police. They worry about being arrested, having rights violated, assaulted, humiliated, demeaned or treated as a criminal. For these specific reasons, once we put the call out to Facebook we were flooded with tips and volunteers to help aid in the search for this child. We found her within a few hours. One of the police who came once we found her, wanted to bring her back to care or throw her in jail. This issue for me is problematic as we see the need and try to give reason for someone running away. Thankfully, Alan Chamberlain (this is an Indigenous Liaison Officer with the CPS) had also responded and came to help. He was able to find a third option in which the child felt safe and protected, where the threat of either going home or jail wasn't presented.

3.0 Realities & Responses

As part of its mandate, the Task Force reviewed existing gang prevention, intervention and suppression initiatives in Calgary. Programs are offered by a number of partners, including The City of Calgary, the Government of Alberta, Public Safety Canada, the Calgary Police Service, Alberta Health Services, the Calgary Board of Education and the Calgary Catholic School District, as well as social service and non-profit agencies, and faith and ethnocultural groups.

Programs and strategies that focus on prevention, intervention and suppression are effective tools for addressing gang involvement and gang-related violence. Prevention programs generally target children and youth at high risk of becoming involved in crime, often by strengthening protective factors against gang involvement such as participation in sports, pro-social activities and positive interactions with adults in school or community settings.

In contrast, gang intervention programs typically focus on individuals who are actively engaged in a gang or have been involved in criminal activity. These programs are more likely to offer a wraparound approach which provides on-going support and removes barriers to education, employment and access to recreation and cultural activities. Both types of programs work by increasing positive influences in the lives of individuals and caregivers, while ensuring families have the basic needs, knowledge and skills required to mitigate the impact of risk factors.

A third strategy for reducing gang violence is gang suppression, which focuses on enforcement and prosecution to target and disrupt gangs and criminal networks.

3.1 Programs and Services in Calgary

The following section provides a summary of existing programs and initiatives in Calgary. Programs have been classified as either prevention, intervention or suppression, however, some overlap in mandate or service delivery may exist. While these programs focus specifically on at-risk or gang involved populations, a selection of additional services working to reduce risk factors and increase protective factors for families are available and have been included in Appendix 4.

Prevention Programs

Calgary AfterSchool

Funded by Family and Community Support Services, Calgary AfterSchool is delivered by Calgary Neighbourhoods and Calgary Recreation and provides safe, free and fun programs for at-risk children and youth during critical hours when gaps in supervision may exist between a child's school day and a family's workday. The goal of the program is to help participants improve school performance, stay productive, learn new skills and make new connections with peers.

Gang Helpline

The helpline was established by the Calgary Police Service for residents to call in tips and concerns about gang activity. Staff can also provide assistance to individuals who want to exit the gang lifestyle or know of someone who needs help getting out of a gang.

Integrated School Support Program (ISSP)

ISSP uses a prevention-based wraparound approach to support students and parents at two elementary schools in the Forest Lawn community. The program provides access to an on-site psychologist, physical education specialist, social worker, health clinician, academic support, meal and after school programs, and a positive police presence. Program partners include the Calgary Board of Education, the Calgary Catholic School District, the Calgary Police Youth Foundation and the Calgary Police Service.

Multi Agency School Support Team (MASST)

This partnership between The City, the Calgary Police Service, Alberta Health Services, the Calgary Board of Education and Calgary Catholic School District, with programming support from the Calgary Police Youth Foundation, targets children between 5-12 who are at risk of future criminal involvement or victimization. The program aims to foster positive change by strengthening protective factors such as school performance, constructive use of time, peer relationships and parenting skills for families and caregivers.

Stay Smart Stay Safe (S4)

This collaborative initiative between the Calgary Police Service, the Calgary Board of Education and the Calgary Catholic School District partners police officers with teachers to engage students in strengths-based lessons in the classroom. The program helps build competency in areas such as problem solving, communication, healthy relationship-building and personal and community safety with a goal of decreasing youth involvement in criminal activity.

Soccer Without Boundaries

This grassroots volunteer organization offers a variety of multicultural outreach programs designed to foster a sense of belonging among new Canadian youth at-risk of violence, gang involvement and drug use. The program improves self-esteem and pro-social behaviour through organized soccer clubs, after school programming and mentorship opportunities, and provides support to families by improving food security and helping to meet basic needs.

YouthLink – Gang Life Ends Here

This partnership between the Calgary Police Service and YouthLink, with funding from the Calgary Police Youth Foundation, targets youth 12 and over and is designed to raise awareness of current issues surrounding gang violence and provides information for parents on how to support youth in avoiding a high-risk lifestyle and gang recruitment. The program uses experiential learning exhibits, interactive and engaging online games and curriculum-based lesson plans.

Intervention Programs

Calgary Indigenous Court (CIC) & Drug Court

These special courts of the Provincial Court of Alberta were established to handle cases in a therapeutic and culturally appropriate manner. The CIC facilitates restorative justice through peacemaking and connecting individuals to their cultures and communities. It utilizes dedicated judges who are Indigenous or experienced in Indigenous Restorative Justice, an Indigenous Crown Prosecutor, designated duty counsel and Indigenous Legal Counsel, Restorative Justice Peacemakers, Traditional Knowledge Keepers, Indigenous Court Workers and community support agencies. The Drug Court aims to break the cycle of criminal behaviour by diverting participants away from prison and into a drug treatment program if they have been involved in a non-violent offence.

Calgary John Howard Society (CJHS)

This non-profit organization offers a range of intervention programs for youth and young adults aged 12-24 which aim to address the root causes of crime by removing barriers to education, employment, housing and support. CJHS also runs programs which offer opportunities for conflict resolution, restorative justice and after prison outreach. The Mentorship for Indigenous Youth program connects participants with Elders to strengthen cultural identity and provide positive mentors. CJHS also provides outreach, advocacy and support services for Indigenous or immigrant youth who are exhibiting criminal behaviour.

Community Corrections

Alberta Justice & Solicitor General provides support to youth up to 18 years as they complete court-ordered, community-based sentences (including probation). The goal of the program is to reduce escalation and recidivism by increasing protective factors such as employment, housing and social connections, and reducing risk factors such as substance use and mental health concerns.

Gateway

Gateway is a pre-charge diversion program for youth aged 12-18 who have committed minor, non-violent offences and accept responsibility for their actions. Program staff also refer participants and their families for counseling and assist in connecting individuals with additional programs and resources. Gateway is a partnership between The City of Calgary and the Calgary Police Service.

Real Me: Gang Intervention

This program developed and run by The Centre for Newcomers uses a high-fidelity wraparound approach to help newcomer youth aged 12-24 who are currently involved in gang-related activities or at risk of becoming involved in the gang lifestyle. The program assists participants by creating their own team of family members and support professionals and facilitates relationships with positive peers and opportunities for pro-social activities, among other interventions.

ReDirect

This program aims to prevent the radicalization of youth up to age 24 to ideologies of violent extremism by strengthening protective factors such as social inclusion, independence and improved mental and emotional wellbeing.

ReDirect is a partnership between The City of Calgary, the Calgary Police Service and Alberta Health Services, with funding from Public Safety Canada.

Restorative Actions for Transformation (RAFT)

RAFT is a partnership between The City and the Mennonite Central Committee (with funding from Family and Community Support Services) which provides youth aged 12-18 who have committed an offence with the opportunity to participate in the restorative justice process. The program helps participants understand the negative impacts of their actions on victims, the community and themselves, with a goal of identifying triggers and strategies to manage offending behaviour and decrease recidivism.

Youth at Risk Development Program (YARD)

This partnership between The City of Calgary, the Calgary Police Service and Alberta Health Services (with programming support provided by the Calgary Police Youth Foundation) supports youth aged 10-17 who are at risk of gang involvement. Using a wraparound approach, YARD focuses on addressing the root causes of gang involvement in order to decrease gang activity, recruitment and recidivism among program participants.

We have to focus on the factors that lead to violence such as a lack of resources at home, family violence, parents who work multiple jobs or single moms, societal and systemic issues, and gender-based violence as a precursor to gang violence.

Gang Suppression

In 2020, the Calgary Police Service formed the Organized Crime & Offender Management Section to better coordinate and align gang suppression and offender management resources. The following teams and units combine to suppress organized crime and gang activity:

Guns & Gangs Unit

Guns & Gangs works collaboratively with the Real Time Operations Centre as well as a variety of other partner agencies, including corrections, probation and parole, to monitor known gang members in communities to ensure individuals are abiding by curfews and other enforceable conditions of release.

Gang Suppression Team (GST)

GST is a specialized unit of experienced officers who patrol licensed premises to disrupt drug and gang-related activities. They also conduct directed patrols in areas known for organized crime activity.

Gang Enforcement Team (GET)

GET investigates gang related crime and targets of interest and provides support to other units and institutions (e.g. corrections) on gang-related investigations.

Intelligence Group (OIG)

OIG provides 24 hour/day, real time intelligence information to front line operations on organized crime including violent gang offenders and ongoing enforcement activity and opportunities.

Firearms Investigative Team (FIT)

FIT's mandate is to conduct investigations into firearms trafficking and source all firearms seized by the CPS.

Front-line Patrol & Investigations

Patrol members and investigators, as well as Community Resource Officers and School Resource Officers play an important role in gang suppression and enforcement activities in communities as part of the CPS' integrated response to organized crime.

3.2 Programs in Other Jurisdictions

Community concerns about escalating gang and gun violence is not just a Calgary issue. The Task Force investigated a variety of different approaches being used in other jurisdictions in Canada and other countries to discourage gang involvement and reduce urban violence. The models included below were referred to the Task Force by academia and experts working in the field or have shown promise in reducing criminal outcomes in communities.

Gang Prevention Programs

Surrey Anti-gang Family Empowerment Program (SAFE), Surrey, BC

Funded by Public Safety Canada and run by the City of Surrey, the SAFE program is a collection of 11 unique programs delivered by 10 partner agencies. The goal of SAFE is to proactively divert vulnerable individuals away from gang involvement by offering a variety of services such as cultural support to children, youth and families at higher risk and services targeted to specific neighbourhoods. Examples of programs offered by SAFE include: Caregiver Education, Female Youth Gang Intervention, the Intercultural Family Intervention Program, the South Asian Family Strengthening Team and the High Risk Youth Justice Program.

End Gang Life, Surrey, BC

This education campaign developed by the Combined Forces Special Enforcement Unit – BC and partners exposes myths about gang life through eye-catching posters, videos and outreach activities developed for youth at schools, community groups and ethnocultural associations. A feature of the program was an information booklet for parents on youth gang involvement published in eight different languages, as well as an extensive social media and communication campaign which included culturally tailored messaging on ethnic media outlets targeted at parents, siblings and neighbours concerned about gang-involved family and community members.

Yo Bro / Yo Girl Youth Initiative, Surrey, BC

This program provided by the Surrey School District runs several strength-based programs focused on raising awareness of drugs, gangs, healthy relationships, violence prevention and emotional self-control. The initiative also offers an after school mixed martial arts program for children and youth aged 6-18 who are most at risk of gang involvement, violence and substance use. The program was founded by a former gang member and recovering addict who imparts his lived experience on participants.

Gang Intervention Programs

Cure Violence (Chicago, IL and many other jurisdictions)

This comprehensive strategy developed by the non-profit Cure Violence Organization takes a health-based approach to gang prevention by treating it as an epidemic outbreak. By diagnosing and treating gang violence through a disease control lens, the program aims to limit the spread of violence in high crime areas through behaviour modification. A unique feature of the program are former gang members who act as “violence interrupters” to mediate disputes between rival gangs and encourage gang exiting after traumatic incidents or at critical junctures in an individual’s life.

In It Together, Abbotsford, BC

This partnership between the South Asian Community Resource Office, Youth Resource Centre, Abbotsford Police Department and Abbotsford School District is based on the Spergel Model which is a three-pronged approach to gang prevention which coordinates prevention, intervention and suppression activities. The goal of the program is to interrupt the flow of youth into the gang lifestyle by providing integrated case management and counselling to youth and their families, as well as recreational opportunities, youth and parent groups and essential skill development for high-risk families. Services are provided in both English and Punjabi.

Multisystemic Therapy (MST), Toronto and multiple other jurisdictions

MST is a home-based program for youth aged 12-17 that provides more intensive therapy than traditional family counselling programs. By offering therapy in a convenient and comfortable location for families, barriers to treatment are removed and youth and families receive integrated case management and help with reducing the potential impact of an individual’s home life or social network on anti-social and delinquent behaviour.

Stop Now and Plan (SNAP) Model Programs, Edmonton, AB and multiple other jurisdictions worldwide

The SNAP program is an internationally recognized, community-based program for families and youth aged 6-12 who have engaged in criminal behaviour or are at risk of doing so. The program is delivered in a classroom setting by facilitators who teach cognitive behaviour modification techniques designed to reduce aggression, rule-breaking tendencies and conduct issues. The program is typically delivered by community organizations in partnership with schools, police and social service agencies.

Gang Exiting and Re-Integration Programs

Homeboy Industries, Los Angeles, CA

This internationally recognized program provides mental health treatment, case management, tattoo removal, employment services, legal services, educational opportunities and job certification for youth and adults exiting gangs or criminal organizations. The success of the program is due to its “one-stop-shop approach” where all services are housed under one roof and can be accessed by participants during the 18-month program.

STR8 UP Gang Violence Reduction Strategy, Saskatoon & St. Albert, SK

STR8 UP is a grassroots community intervention model that offers programs for individuals aged 15-30 who want to exit the gang lifestyle. The program provides support with the four key areas of outreach, training, personal development and community education, and offers opportunities to strengthen cultural identity for Indigenous participants. STR8 Up aims to reduce further contact with the criminal justice system by engaging with individuals over the long-term as they complete the steps of the program: Outreach (4-6 months), Transformation (1-2 years) and Support & Sustainment (1-2 years).

One tragic example of domestic assault using a firearm was the case of Nadia El-dib, who was stabbed and shot by her partner in Calgary with a legally obtained firearm, who died himself four days later in a shootout with RCMP officers near Edmonton.

While domestic related calls continue to be high in 2020 at 11,098 for the first and second quarter, we continue to see a low number of domestic assaults with a weapon. With the majority of domestic homicides and domestic assaults in Calgary not involving the use of a firearm, guns are still used as a tool of coercion and control in intimate partner relationships.

3.3 Gap Analysis

Although there are a significant number of programs being offered in Calgary to help improve outcomes for at-risk individuals and families, opportunities exist to expand and coordinate services for potentially underserved populations. The following summary outlines the initial gaps identified by the Task Force based on stakeholder feedback and the review of existing programs and services in Calgary (Figure 3) and other jurisdictions.

- There is an opportunity to increase public awareness of the realities and consequences of gang involvement at the broader community or city level. The ‘YouthLink – Gang Life Ends Here’ program is designed to raise awareness of gang life for youth over 12 and their parents, however there are few other programs that build public recognition of the issue among all members of the community. A comprehensive public awareness campaign which uses a variety of modalities to reach community members, including culturally appropriate media and messaging, can be used to educate and clear up misconceptions about gang life, and can also encourage residents to take action. Frequent and recurring campaigns which create a network of supporters, including community partners, business leaders and influential community members, can further spread the message about gang prevention with specific audiences that may otherwise not be engaged.
- Better system navigation and coordination would enhance existing prevention and intervention programs. Although there are many prevention and intervention programs in Calgary which aim to reduce risk factors and increase protective factors for children and youth, there is a lack of information for individuals and families on how to navigate to appropriate services, as well as a need for better coordination between programs. Improvements in this area would highlight capacity issues in existing programs and would help ensure that individuals transitioning through life stages (e.g. from youth to adulthood) receive uninterrupted support.

- There is a need for more culturally appropriate programming options. There is a gap in prevention and intervention programs that support newcomers and address the specific needs of individual ethnocultural groups. More programs that deliver services in multiple languages and take into consideration barriers to integration, such as immigration trauma, system navigation for education and other resources, and parenting skills development are required. Program design and delivery should be informed by diverse worldviews, ways of knowing and being, cultural beliefs and practices. Additional

- protective factors, such as home visits by healthcare professionals and parent support programs, are an identified need for families coming from conflict zones.
- There is an opportunity to provide more formal support to parents and caregivers. There are relatively few prevention and intervention programs targeted specifically to parents and caregivers of at-risk or gang-involved children and youth. Programs which offer parent workshops or skills development opportunities, either through schools or community agencies, could help parents and caregivers resolve anti-social behaviours in children before they escalate to criminality.
- There is limited access to gang exiting programs. There is a need to provide more support for high-risk youth and adults who are ready to leave the gang lifestyle and transition back into the community. For those released from remand, more short-term supports are needed to quickly connect individuals with resources to decrease the potential for escalation or reoffending. Additional long-term re-entry programs are also needed to provide wraparound services to offenders that require more intensive post-custody support with mental health and addictions counselling, housing, employment, life-skills development and culturally appropriate interventions and community supports.
- There is a need for street outreach focused on gang-involved individuals. There is an opportunity to increase support for grassroots, street outreach programs to meet hard-to-reach, gang-involved individuals where they are. Outreach workers engage individuals outside of agency walls by building relationships and using trauma-informed and culturally appropriate interventions to connect individuals to services. Grassroots organizations and street outreach programs that draw on the lived experience of gang involvement can also normalize the idea of exiting the gang lifestyle and provide positive examples of successful transitions.

- There is an opportunity to apply a lens of anti-racism and anti-colonialism to program development and evaluation.

Systemic and structural barriers often prevent diverse community members and families, particularly those in the BIPOC community, from accessing essential resources and services. There is a need to collaborate with the BIPOC community and those with lived experience to address existing inequalities in gang prevention, intervention and exiting programs, both for individuals and on a community-wide level. Greater support for advocacy-focused initiatives that work to identify and address systemic issues and ideologies within institutions is also required.

The community and those with lived experience need to be involved in all facets of program development, including evaluation, so we know whether programs are actually having an impact and working for the intended populations.

I was in a position where I was young, impressionable, my friends started to get into gang life and so did I. I look back on my life then and I realize that if I didn't go to prison for my particular offence, it would have been something else. Jail or death, it's what was in the cards for me – it was the life I was living at the time.

I needed mentorship. I needed guidance. Both of my parents were working long hours to keep food on our table, but this left little time to engage me and keep me supervised. After my offence, I knew something had to change so I went back to school, found mentors who believed in me and now I'm a published peer-reviewed author, have obtained a Master's degree from one of the best schools of Kinesiology in the world (right here in the University of Calgary), and have presented my research internationally numerous times. I didn't know this type of success was an option for me – I thought I would be stuck in gang life and didn't have anyone to mentor me through those formative years of my young life. Now, aside from running my own business and publishing scholarly works from my research, I mentor individuals through the Calgary John Howard Society, who have come out of incarceration so they can also find success and become positive and contributing members of our community.

We need leaders. I look at the individuals engaged in gun and gang violence in our city, and I see so much of myself in them. To throw your life away at such a young age seems unimaginable to most but these are our youth. My goal is to be the support for these individuals that I needed when I was their age, because we're not so different. Some of them just need an opportunity to actualize the potential they already have – but often these opportunities don't exist for them. By not stepping up and doing something we're failing our young people.

4.0 Recommendations for Action

The purpose of the Community-Based Public Safety Task Force was to bring together a diverse group of citizens to provide recommendations and advice to Council on identifying and addressing community concerns around violence, including gang and gun violence.

Through an assessment of existing programs and services in Calgary and other jurisdictions, as well as extensive community and public engagement, the Task Force heard that gang and gun violence is a complex issue that requires a complex response, both on the ground at the community level and through the support and investment of partners.

Since it was initiated in 2020 February, the Task Force has worked amid a changing landscape in which a number of initiatives, such as the Anti-Racism Action Committee, the Community Action on Mental Health and Addiction Strategy, and the Community Safety Investment Framework, have been working to help address public safety concerns in Calgary. These programs target similar root causes, conditions and consequences of urban violence; however, the mandate of the Task Force was focused on providing a foundation for a community-driven, community-owned collaborative approach to concerns around gang and gun violence.

With this in mind, the following recommendations propose tangible actions within the scope of the Task Force that can be taken to create safe and connected communities where all citizens feel secure. Specific themes that emerged from the Task Force to inform each action item are summarized in Appendix 6.

Action 1: Share, Monitor and Advocate

Valuable insights gained by the Task Force on the realities, gaps and proposed solutions to urban violence, including those that were outside the scope of the task force, will be consolidated and shared through a letter from the Task Force Chair to appropriate organizations. The City will schedule a check-in with each organization to monitor progress. The Chair will continue to advocate to the Government of Canada on issues related to urban violence.

Action 2: Apply for and Align Funding

The City will create an action plan for funding based on criteria identified by the community and Task Force to apply for anticipated federal grants from Public Safety Canada. Calgary's potential share of the funding over the next five years would then finance solicited proposals from the community that align with the criteria to support immediate, Calgary-based community solutions specific to gang and gun violence.

Based on feedback from the community and the Task Force, criteria for the potential investments could include, but is not limited to: improved navigation of programs, barrier-free youth programs, increased supports for offenders, increased supports for youth addiction recovery, and increased programming for parents and families. The criteria could also be used to guide partnership opportunities or future applications for other funding sources as they arise.

Action 3: Coordinate and Improve Navigation and Access

The City will play a key role in system mapping, coordinating community stakeholders to identify and prioritize needs and opportunities related to at-risk and gang-involved populations. This work will involve identifying gaps and barriers around navigating gang-specific programming, improving access for those at risk or involved in gang activity, and supporting advocacy-focused initiatives toward systemic change.

4.1 Timeline for Action

As outlined in Figure 4, the Task Force recommends implementing the proposed actions starting in 2021 May to continue building on the momentum of the Task Force and to ensure organizations in Calgary are well-positioned to receive dedicated funding for community-led crime prevention programming focused on gun and gang violence from Public Safety Canada, which is anticipated to be available shortly.

In 2021 May, the Chair of the Task Force will share the final Community-Based Public Safety Task Force report and a summary of additional feedback referred to Task Force member agencies (Appendix 7) to each organization to distribute and action as appropriate.

The City of Calgary will work with community stakeholders to finalize the framework for anticipated federal funding from Public Safety Canada by the end of Q2 2021 and will play a key role in identifying opportunities to improve coordination, navigation and access to programs into Q3 2021.

The City will conduct a check-in with Task Force member agencies in Q4 2021 to ensure referred items continue to receive advocacy and support.

A final update to Council on actions taken by member agencies, as well as on the outcomes of the Task Force recommendations is planned before the end of Q4 2021 to review progress and assess how this initiative has contributed to community safety.

Appendix 5: Stakeholder Report Back: What We Heard

Community-Based Public Safety Task Force Ward 5 Councillor's Office

Stakeholder Report Back: What We Heard
2021 February 5

Project overview

Council directed the formation of the Community-Based Public Safety Task Force (Task Force) in 2020 February to address community concerns around violence. The Task Force is a diverse group from various fields, including academic experts, community leaders, local service agencies, public education, police, as well as provincial and federal government representatives.

Meeting public safety challenges requires the entire community to come together to better understand our strengths, our challenges, and our shared commitment. Through this Task Force, we intend to listen to the community and identify both positive actions, gaps and challenges with existing programs and services. The Task Force will report back to Council with a summary of what was heard from the community and actionable recommendations.

The Task Force want to hear perspectives on public safety in Calgary. Local governments have an important role to play in developing safe and viable communities by continually developing contextually appropriate, community-driven solutions.

Engagement overview

The purpose of the public engagement was to gather input from Calgarians on how they perceive public safety in Calgary. The input will be used to inform the actionable recommendations with a focus on prevention related to community concerns around violence.

The public engagement started on 2020 November 3 and ended on 2020 December 18. Due to the COVID-19 pandemic, open public feedback was only collected online through the engage website. The engage website provided the project information, timeline, links to Council documents, and contact information.

What we asked

The following is the list of questions that survey participants were asked to provide input through their responses.

1. What ward do you live in?
2. What community do you live in?
3. What do you think are the biggest public safety issues in your community?
4. Do you have any ideas to increase public safety in your community and the City of Calgary?

Other information was also asked that will not be used for recommendations, however does help us to learn for future public engagements. This included how participants heard about the project and demographic information.

Views: The cumulative number of times a visitor visits the page in a site.

Visits: The number of end-user session associated with a single visitor.

Visitors: The number of unique public or end-users in a site. A visitor is only counted once.

Contributions: The total number of responses of feedback collected through the participation tools.

Contributors: The unique number of visitors who have left feedback through the participation tools.

12	5.23%	28
13	4.11%	22
14	5.05%	27

What we heard

The perspectives and ideas participants shared in this report does not reflect statistically valid research, rather it provides a snapshot of participants perception at a point in time.

The largest public safety issue identified by participants was auto theft and break-ins at over 65%, followed by home break-ins at 45%. The other public safety issues that were identified by over 20% of participants were illegal drug use (30%), traffic issues (27%), and illegal drug sales (22%). Violent crime was identified less frequently by participants, however this does not imply any less of a threat or impact to residents.

When participants were asked if they had any ideas to increase public safety within their community and through the City of Calgary, the following were the main themes:

- More police presence – no reductions to police and/or budget
- More social services and programs – increase city economic development
- More support for block watch and community awareness initiatives
- Increased lighting and video camera surveillance
- Increased transit safety infrastructure and resources
- More traffic calming initiatives and enforcement
- Increase in crime penalties
- Improved police response times and follow-up process
- Better social infrastructure locations

Community-Based Public Safety Task Force Ward 5 Councillor's Office

Stakeholder Report Back: What We Heard
2021 February 5

The theme identified by the highest number of participants was more police presence in their community which was often accompanied by an appeal to not reduce the number of police or their budget. The second most identified theme was to develop more accessible social services and programs especially for youth, young adults, and people experiencing mental illness. Overall, this was associated with a strong city economy where residents could obtain quality work and wages. Some participants supported having additional training for police in the area of mental illness and community relations, and therefore identified both themes as important.

- For a detailed summary of the input that was provided, please see the Summary of Input section.

Next steps

The information gathered through the engagement will be used to report back to Council in 2021 Q2 with a summary of what was heard from the community and used to inform actionable recommendations with a focus on prevention related to community concerns around violence.

Question 4. Do you have any ideas to increase public safety in your community or throughout the City of Calgary?

Theme	Sample Verbatim Quotes
More police presence – no reductions to police and/or budget	“More police presence in the communities. In Japan, there are police 'boxes' in each neighbourhood, so the police are always nearby. This acts as a deterrent and, if they are called, the police can be there quickly” “More frequent police presence and patrols” “Night time police presence on the problem streets. More awareness of the community liaison officers, and their positions should be a lot more public. Better mental health awareness from the police” “Training police officers to deal with substance abusers in a way that is evidence-based and provides meaningful change, rather than punitive punishment”
More social services and programs – increase city economic development	“More mental health clinics and support, more social workers that check up on clients” “Reallocate funds from police to social service agencies to decriminalize/ remove the stigma from issues re: mental health, homelessness, POC, Indigenous, LGBTQ2+, etc. Stop expecting police to be social workers so they can concentrate on catching criminals” “Ensure adequate funding for social programs that address violent behaviour at its root. That means: public housing, 'Police and Crisis Team,' and 'DOAP Team’”
More support for block watch and community awareness initiatives	“Set-up community watch programmes, but this must be done without putting concerned citizens in danger” “Give Blockwatches more training and authority in addressing public safety. Self-policing needs to be rewarded to help prevent crime”
Increased lighting and video camera surveillance	“Better street/pedestrian lighting to promote more pedestrian traffic to discourage break-in's” “More streetlights and community lights!! On the roads as well as communities. It's sooooo dark nowadays that almost everywhere, it's so dim and you cannot even see your perpetrator which increases chances of more violence and illegal activity”

Appendix 6: Task Force Themes that Informed Recommendations

Action 1: Share, Monitor and Advocate

Valuable insights gained by the Task Force on the realities, gaps and proposed solutions to urban violence, including those that were outside the scope of the task force, will be consolidated and shared through a letter from the Task Force Chair to appropriate organizations. The City will schedule a check-in with each organization to monitor progress. The Chair will continue to advocate to the Government of Canada on issues related to urban violence.

Task Force themes:

- We heard a number of recommendations from the public engagement that fall outside the scope of the Task Force; however, we want to ensure that feedback is shared with the appropriate organizations

Action 2: Apply for and Align Funding

The City will create an action plan for funding based on criteria identified by the community and Task Force to apply for anticipated federal grants from Public Safety Canada. Calgary's potential share of the funding over the next five years would then finance solicited proposals from the community that align with the criteria to support immediate, Calgary-based community solutions specific to gang and gun violence.

Based on feedback from the community and the Task Force, criteria for the potential investments could include, but is not limited to: improved navigation of programs, barrier-free youth programs, increased supports for offenders, increased supports for youth addiction recovery, and increased programming for parents and families. The criteria could also be used to guide partnership opportunities or future applications for other funding sources as they arise.

Task Force themes:

- Additional funding to support existing programs is badly needed
- Additional funding to support new programs, strategies and initiatives to fill gaps is critical

Action 3: Coordinate and Improve Navigation and Access

The City will play a key role in system mapping, coordinating community stakeholders to identify and prioritize needs and opportunities related to at-risk and gang-involved populations. This work will involve identifying gaps and barriers around navigating gang-specific programming, improving access for those at-risk or involved in gang activity, and supporting advocacy-focused initiatives toward systemic change.

Task Force themes:

- Resource a position to coordinate and work with community
- Create a network for those delivering services
- Current programming that is effective should be maintained or expanded
- Initiatives need to be community-built and community-owned
- Increase support for grassroots organizations who are delivering the work in the community
- Ensure programming is culturally appropriate for the communities it is intended to serve
- Actions should be evidence-based
- Coordinate with ongoing City of Calgary initiatives such as Community Action on Mental Health and Addiction, Anti-Racism and Community Safety Investment Framework
- Create a "community-hub" or one-stop shop that improves navigation
- Youth programs should be barrier-free
- Increase supports for offenders
- Increase supports for youth addiction recovery
- Increase supports for parents and families

Appendix 7: Additional Themes for Task Force Member Agencies

Since the Task Force was initiated in 2020 February there have been several initiatives, including the Anti-Racism Action Committee, Community Action on Mental Health and Addiction Strategy and the Community Safety Investment Framework, that action key themes that were reoccurring throughout the Task Force's engagement. The Task Force identified a strong need for coordination with City initiatives on the following themes:

Anti-Racism Action Committee – City of Calgary

- Public engagement led by the Task Force showed a clear theme that racism in Calgary is both a form of violence and a cause of violence.
- Any framework implemented to support the safety of BIPOC community needs to be rooted in emancipatory principles that work towards the end of systemic racism and towards systemic liberation.
- We heard that successful efforts to end systemic racism require explicit focus on community ownership and belonging.

Community Action on Mental Health and Addiction – City of Calgary

- Public engagement led by the Task Force showed a clear connection to mental health and addictions issues in the community.
- We heard mental health is a large factor in crime and violence. Sometimes the act of violence is a reaction to mental health, sometimes it is a symptom.
- Mental health support for parents and siblings has been identified as a significant gap in offering a holistic, wrap-around approach to at-risk children and youth.
- A significant gap in addiction support for youth in Calgary, particularly for Indigenous youth, has been identified. Addiction is often a driver of gang involvement and violent crime, and prevention of future criminal involvement among at-risk youth often cannot be successful until addiction issues are addressed.

Community Safety Investment Framework – City of Calgary

- Public engagement led by the Task Force showed support for investment in alternative response models through the Community Safety Investment Framework.
- We heard suggestions that female officers should be taking the lead in domestic violence cases, and social workers should attend domestic violence calls and be the first line of communication.
- Communication should be streamlined related to domestic violence calls so that victims do not have to repeat their stories to multiple departments within the Calgary Police Service (CPS), or with other organizations.
- In instances of domestic violence, women reported being told to “call back” to CPS if anything happens; but this is often too late. Resources should be put in place for support prior to further incidents happening.
- Fund and support existing street outreach programs such as Bear Clan Patrol, Be the Change YYC, and DOAP Team.

A strength of the Task Force was the diverse perspectives and experiences that each member brought to the complex issue of gang and gun violence. The Task Force identified a number of themes that were beyond the mandate established in the Terms of Reference but are relevant to the broader discussion on community safety. These themes have been consolidated below for Task Force members to share with their individual organizations as appropriate.

Chair of the Task Force/City Council

- Explore use of Municipal Bylaw on firearms, as per the proposed changes in Bill C-21.
- Review gun control legislation in light of local and regional context.

Calgary School Boards

- Schools play a key role in prevention and early intervention for youth who may be susceptible to gang life.
- The Calgary Board of Education and the Calgary Catholic School District work with community to develop an Anti-Racism Action Plan for their organizations.
- Both school boards evaluate existing mental health supports for youth to ensure programs are culturally appropriate to meet student needs and consider expanding mental health supports for students who come from conflict zones to support integration.
- Consider offering parenting workshops, home visits and parent support programs.
- Consider piloting a Family School Liaison to support engagement between parents and students and involve community members/leaders where required to intervene.<sup>1</sup>
- More after school programming opportunities (Homework club, STEM and sports programs) at schools.
- Advocate for expansion of the Early Development Centre (EDC) program.

Calgary Police Commission / Calgary Police Service

- Public engagement led by the Task Force showed a clear theme that racism in Calgary is both a form of violence and a cause of violence.
- CPS should take concrete steps towards anti-racism.
- Hiring and Training:
  - Ensure that the overall makeup of the Calgary Police Service workforce reflects the diversity and make-up of Calgary's population.
  - This includes hiring female officers at a more rapid speed to ensure gender parity is achieved.
  - Diversity and implicit bias training for members should be mandatory and regularly evaluated and updated.
  - Expand CPS diversity resource team training and funding to provide community outreach/ partnerships and build stronger ties with the community.
- Discipline:
  - An independent tribunal should be established for dealing with complaints against officers.<sup>2</sup>
- Programming:
  - A comprehensive assessment of all existing programs should be conducted. Programs that should be evaluated include but are not limited to: Integrated School Support Program (ISSP), Stay Smart Stay Safe (S4) Program, School Resource Officer (SRO) Program, The Multi-Agency School Support Team (MASST), The Youth at Risk Development (YARD) Program.
  - Current programming that is effective should be maintained or expanded.
  - School Resource Officer (SRO) program should include use of Civilian members to support schools.
- Data and Information Sharing:
  - Collaborate and share data between CPS and the City of Calgary related to communities and individuals affected by violence to help inform prevention, intervention and enforcement strategies.

- Consider collection of race-based data for evidence-based decision making for CPS, City and partners to help allocate and support communities disproportionality effected by urban violence.
- Support and fund Community Public Safety Audits in communities with high public safety concerns as per City of Calgary Citizen Satisfaction Survey, and CPS data showing highest levels of crime.
- Use the results of these Community Public Safety Audits to work with the City of Calgary on Crime Prevention Through Environmental Design (CPTED) solutions.
- Public Education:
  - Work with community groups that represent cultures that may have mistrust of police to build relationships and provide general education related to the role of police, how to report crime, etc.
  - Such education should be provided in a way that is culturally appropriate for the audience it is intended for.
- Support for offenders:
  - Following a similar model to the Edmonton Police Service, the Calgary Police Service should consider issuing letters of reference to individuals post-release who do not pose a danger to reoffend but cannot clear a criminal file off their record.
  - Discharge of criminal record (non-violent crimes) after time served, and probationary period.
- Domestic Violence
  - We heard suggestions that female officers should be taking the lead in domestic violence cases, and social workers should attend domestic violence calls and be the first line of communication.

Government of Alberta

- Funding is required to support both existing programs in the community and the expansion or creation of new programs to fill gaps.
- Provincial End Gang Life strategy as advocated by the Calgary Police Service
- Advocacy with Alberta Crown Prosecutor's Office and the Judiciary to ensure adequate resources and use of legal remedies in prosecuting predatory organized crime and gang offenders.
- Offender Support:
  - More supports are needed for offenders who have committed a crime and are released back into the community in order to prevent further offences or a return to gang life. Such supports include job support, affordable housing, basic needs such as food and clothing.
- Mental Health and Support:
  - Mental health supports to youth, as well as parents and siblings of MASST and YARD clients has been identified as a significant gap in offering a holistic, wrap-around approach to at-risk children and youth. Alberta Health Services as a partner in these programs has observed that a significant proportion of clients' parents required mental health support and struggled to access service due to a number of barriers (e.g. transportation, finances, stigma, etc.). Acknowledging that the family system plays a significant role in the overall health and well-being of children/youth, the Calgary Police Service supports a recent proposal by Alberta Health Services for a Whole Family Care approach to MASST, YARD, and ReDirect clients that would address gaps in parental mental health, build capacity among families to manage stressors and improve outcomes for clients.
- Community Based Youth Addiction Recovery Program:
  - Annual evaluation of the YARD program has continually identified a significant gap in addiction supports for youth in Calgary, particularly for Indigenous youth. Addiction is often a driver of gang involvement and violent crime, and prevention of future criminal involvement among at-risk youth often cannot be successful until addiction issues are addressed. Acknowledging this gap, the Calgary Police Service recommends that a sustainable Community-Based Youth Addiction Recovery Program be established in Calgary that includes culturally appropriate services and supports, particularly for Indigenous youth.
- Domestic Violence
  - Ensure Clare's Law is enacted to give individuals at risk of domestic violence the option to request information about an intimate partner's violent past.<sup>3</sup>

Government of Canada

- Funding is required to support both existing programs in the community and the expansion or creation of new programs to fill gaps.
- Domestic Violence
  - Redefine what assault is and what a weapon is. Overwhelmingly women told us that cars are a primary weapon of abuses. Through denying access to transportation; or threatening to crash and kill children and other loved ones.
  - Further to this, similar to sex offenders there needs to be a registry for domestic violence offenders that is easily accessible by the public and includes all of Canada, not just Calgary.
- Supporting newcomers
  - Support new Canadians as they arrive at port of entry and offer educational, and skill development opportunities supported by individual case managers.
  - Support trauma of immigration/reintegration.

Notes:

I would like to speak to the Community-Based Public Safety Task Force Recommendations for Action report, as well as its findings. As a lifelong Calgarian and someone who has both lived in the Ward 5 Communities, as well as had first hand experience with the dangers involved with violent crime, gangs, and guns, I would like to offer my perspective to council as well as advocate for a community focused approach when it comes to this problem that has affected our city. I've had the pleasure of lending my experience to Rep. Chahal and his office, and would like to advocate for the measures mentioned in the report, as well as speak to the urgency of this issue to council (with a hope that resources and additional task forces are formed to battle this problem).

Additionally, I'd like to offer the perspective of someone who had seen gang violence firsthand, and has come out of it to lead a successful life. I think my perspective may be of value when discussing this issue, and offer some perspective when trying to find a solution that involves both a community presence and preventative aim (which is the best way to tackle this issue).

RECOMMENDATIONS:

That the Standing Policy Committee on Community and Protective Services recommend that Council:

1. Receive the Calgary Combative Sports Commission Annual Report for the Corporate Record, and
2. Give three readings to the proposed amendments to the Combative Sports Commission Bylaw 53M2006.

HIGHLIGHTS

- The Calgary Combative Sports Commission is required to provide an annual report in accordance with the corporate governance framework. The 2020 Calgary Combative Sports Commission Annual Report includes a summary of activities, financial information and minor bylaw amendments to align the bylaw with industry terminology.
- What does this mean to Calgarians? Having an effective and accountable commission allows promoters to host and Calgarians to attend combative sporting events in a safe environment.
- Why does it matter? Combative sports regulation maintains safety for participants, officials, and spectators, reducing inherent risk.
- Strategic Alignment to Council's Citizen Priorities: A city of safe and inspiring neighbourhoods
- Background and Previous Council Direction are included as Attachment 1.

DISCUSSION

The Calgary Combative Sports Commission is the governing body that regulates combative sporting events within the municipal boundary. The commission is required to report a detailed financial statement, an activity summary and a proposed budget for the forthcoming year, at least once per calendar year to Council. The 2020 Calgary Combative Sports Annual Report is included in Attachment 2.

Sporting events worldwide were impacted by the COVID-19 pandemic. Due to provincial restrictions, only one combative sporting event was held in 2020. The Calgary Combative Sports Commission worked closely with the Government of Alberta to develop consistent standards that will ensure compliance with public health guidelines when combative sporting events are permitted to resume. The safe resumption of combative sports is expected in Step 4 of Alberta's Path Forward plan.

Proposed amendments to the Combative Sports Commission Bylaw 53M2006 will assist in creating a sustainable commission that supports progressive safety standards. Revisions include a reduction in commission membership, an increase to the commission member term length and updated terminology to align with industry standards. Proposed Combative Sports Commission Bylaw amendments are included as Attachment 3.

Economic

Combative sports events support the local economy. These events trigger spectator spending and generate job opportunities.

Service and Financial Implications

No anticipated financial impact

RISK

Combative sports carry inherent risks. The City of Calgary Combative Sports Commission mitigates risks by providing oversight through the bylaw provisions for licensing, rules, monitoring of events and enforcement. Risks are further mitigated through awareness of combative sports best practices including safety processes.

Alberta is the only province in Canada with combative sports regulation at the municipal level. The absence of a provincial combative sports commission results in policies created locally and run independently of each other.

Background & Previous Council Direction

The Combative Sports Commission Bylaw 53M2006 requires the City of Calgary Combative Sports Commission (CCSC) to provide an annual report in accordance with corporate governance.

Attachment 2- 2020 CCSC annual report.docx

Annual Report

Introduction

Governing Body

The Calgary Combative Sports Commission (Commission) is a volunteer body that provides governance for combative sports events in Calgary. Commission regulations maintains a safe environment for participants, officials, and spectators and provides oversight of combative sports with the authority granted under the Combative Sports Commission Bylaw 53M2006, reducing inherent risk. A cost recovery model is used to fund the Commission, where fees paid by combative sports promoters are used for cost associated with regulatory activities.

Report Overview

Sports events worldwide were impacted by the COVID-19 pandemic and the combative sports industry was no exception. The 2020 Annual Report highlights commission activity, provides a breakdown of the plan for safe resumption of combative sports, a summary of the proposed bylaw amendments, a provincial commission advocacy update, and a financial overview.

Commission Activity

The Commission cancelled most of their scheduled 2020 meetings as a result of provincial health restrictions related to the COVID-19 pandemic. Because of the reduction in fees being collected, cost saving measures were implemented, and only essential work continued, including addressing stakeholder concerns, finalizing policies, and meetings with Administration or elected officials.

Update to Mixed Martial Arts Rules

Calgary's Mixed Martial Arts rules were updated to align with Association of Boxing Commissions changes. The updated rules focus on enhancing the participants safety by amending the definition of grounded fighter to disallow dangerous attacks on fighters in vulnerable positions. Calgary joins other North American commissions in making this change to ensure consistent protection for the safety of grounded fighters.

Training Meets Policy

A policy was developed to assist event promoters in understanding regulatory requirements for smaller events. The new Training Meets Policy provides clear defining qualities that mark a combative sports event as requiring Commission oversight.

Event Summary

Combative sports events that were planned for 2020 were significantly reduced due to provincial COVID-19 restrictions. Restrictions began in March 2020 and resulted in only a single event being held, five events scheduled for later in the year were cancelled.

2020 Sanctioned Event
Event	Date	Venue	Event Fee	Event Type
Dekada Fight Night	2020-FEB-15	Deerfoot Inn & Casino	$6,000	Boxing

Planning for Resumption of Combative Sports Events

In July 2020, the Government of Alberta facilitated the formation of a working group to establish uniform guidelines for the resumption of combative sports during the COVID-19 pandemic. The Alberta Minister of Culture, Multiculturalism and the Status of Women launched the group, which included representatives from the Province, the Commission, and municipal combative sports commissions throughout Alberta. Over several months the working group developed standards and protocols for combative sports resumption, including event procedures, participant travel, isolation protocols, and COVID-19 testing. These guidelines will be consistent across the province, ensuring compliance with public health guidelines to protect the safety of participants, officials, and spectators, while supporting the highest possible safety standards when combative sports events are permitted to resume. This collaboration between the province's municipal commissions, initially spearheaded as a result of the pandemic, has been recognized among the membership as a best practice and the working group will continue regular meetings to enhance information-sharing and develop unified provincial responses to various other combative sports issues.

2020 Key Performance Indicators

Key Performance Indicators	Target	2020	2019
Promoter application process time	<30 days	n/a*	15 days
Fighters screened against medical records from other combative sports commissions	100%	100%	100%
Fighters medical suspension report to global database	100%	100%	100%

*No new applications were received in 2020 due to COVID-19

Bylaw Amendments

Amendments to the Combative Sports Commission Bylaw provide an opportunity to better align with industry safety standards, introduce cost saving measures, and reflect the expertise required to enforce stringent combative sports safety standards. The proposed bylaw amendments will help establish a sustainable commission that supports progressive regulatory and safety standards now and in the future.

Industry Standards

The combative sports industry is rapidly evolving, making it essential that the Commission implement continual improvements to rules and regulations in alignment with industry standards. The proposed bylaw amendments provide updated processes and terminology to reflect industry advancements, including enhanced safety documentation for fighters and updated advertising standards. The officials fee schedule has been removed from the bylaw and transitioned into a policy, allowing for suitable adjustments that are in line with economic conditions.

Cost Savings

The Commission uses a cost recovery model, where regulatory activities are funded from event fees. Fluctuations in the number of events and a Commission review of its costs and operational requirements has resulted in a need to adjust the commission structure, including a reduction from seven to five committee members. As an additional cost saving measure, meetings have transitioned from a monthly schedule to as required.

Expertise

The combative sports industry has inherent risk associated with it that requires proper experience and expertise. The bylaw amendments include an increase to the Commission member term lengths and to the number of subsequent terms permitted. Term lengths have been extended from two to three years and the number of consecutive terms a member may serve has increased from three to five. These changes provide the opportunity for Commission members to attain the required knowledge and skill to develop a robust succession management plan and adequately reflect the complexity associated with ensuring safety standards.

Provincial Commission

Alberta is the only province in Canada with combative sports regulation at the municipal level. The absence of a provincial combative sports commission results in bylaws and regulations that are created locally and run independently of each other.

There has been ongoing advocacy for a provincial commission including:

- 2017 Alberta Urban Municipalities Association (AUMA) passed a resolution advocating for a provincial combative sports commission.
- 2019 Minister of Culture, Multiculturalism, and the Status of Women, Honourable Leela Aheer decided a provincial combative sports commission would not be established but permitted municipalities to create common standards.

Given other provincial and municipal priorities associated with the COVID-19 pandemic, there has been limited progress made drafting the provincial combative sport regulations that municipalities can use as a guideline. However, commissions province-wide have collectively defined consistent standards to safely reopen combative sports events with COVID-19 protocols in place. This group will continue to meet to evaluate additional opportunities to achieve cohesive policies and standards.
