Calgarians want action

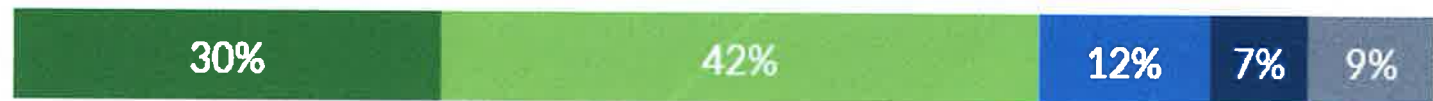

Calgary should focus its economic diversification efforts in becoming a leader in addressing climate change

Calgary's future as a vibrant city is at risk if we don't get serious about addressing climate change

In focusing on environmental health, Calgary can successfully diversify its economy

Tackling climate change will be good for me and my family's economic prospects

A photograph of a worker in a dark jacket and cap, wearing a safety harness, is crouched on a roof installing solar panels. The scene is set against a clear blue sky. In the background, a multi-story residential building with many windows is visible. The image has a blue color cast. A dark blue diagonal shape is overlaid on the left side of the image, containing the text. A light blue triangle is in the bottom right corner, containing the page number.
