

Applicant Outreach Summary

Formal consultation was not conducted as the outline plan was previously approved and the proposed revisions do not fundamentally alter the plan in terms of use, density or transportation network. The landowner and developer, Brookfield Residential, has kept the community informed of the future Stage 1C development and regularly consults with residents regarding their experience living in the community as summarized below:

- Updates on the phasing of development in Livingston are periodically posted on the Livingston Homeowners Association's website and include any proposed refinements to outline plans.
- Brookfield conducts annual livability surveys to determine if the services and amenities provided are meeting the needs of residents.
- Brookfield posted a large map in the Homeowners Association's building which shows the latest anticipated layout of the community including the proposed outline plan.
- The marketing materials for prospective residents includes the proposed outline plan.

In consideration, the proposed outline plan has been shared widely with existing and future residents to keep them informed of modifications of this portion of Livingston.
