Photo: Old Trout Puppet Workshop

With imagination anything can be a puppet, all you need a a strangely shaped stick and a sprinkle of anthropomorphism. Here lies the true magnificence of the Old Trout Puppet Workshop, they blend a variety of puppeteering styles together, as well as blending the logic of our reality universe and their created universe together until this particular audience member will believe just about anything they put in front of her.

– Danielle Benzon, Plank Magazine, March 2012

The birth of the imagination, and the fantasy-provoked quest for happiness, is also the birth of disappointment and despair. In reaching for the yellow balloon, one sad-sack gets throttled on the string. It's a perfectly Trout-ian irony.

– Liz Nicholls, Edmonton Journal, March 2012

I never cease to be amazed by Calgary's own The Old Trout Puppet Workshop.

– Louis Hobson, Calgary Sun, October 2012
