Dear Michelle:

Re: LETTER OF SUPPORT FOR RENAMING CANMORE PARK

I would like to extend my support to the Banff Trail community for renaming Canmore Park.

The Community Association researched the history of Canmore Park, and found that it was originally called Centennial Ravine Park, and then renamed Confederation Park in 1965, just prior to Canada's 100th birthday. The community would like to rename the park to align with its original name of Confederation Park, particularly given Canada's 150th Anniversary this year.

I am supportive of the renaming. The City is working with the community to find a name that will align with the history of the park, yet not cause confusion between this park in Banff Trail and the existing Confederation Park. To that end, I am supportive of adding "west" to the new name to avoid such confusion.

If you have any questions regarding my position, please do not hesitate to contact my office.

Sincerely,

DRUH FARRELL
