Let's make our communities accessible for all Calgarians.

An accessible city benefits everyone in Calgary, including people with disabilities. Almost 10 per cent of Calgarians* identify as having a disability which may include:

- physical (mobility and/or agility)
- sensory (hearing and/or vision)
- cognitive (developmental and/or learning)
- communication access (speech and/or understanding)
- other (pain and/or psychological)

We're committed to helping Calgarians participate in their communities and reach their full potential. By removing barriers to transportation, physical infrastructure, information, meaningful employment, affordable and accessible housing, we help citizens navigate the city and public spaces.
